Master Plan Draft

Join us as the consultants reveal their concept for Rec Park

For the past several months, Weston & Sampson has been studying the park and available land, along with the usage history for our fields and projecting the future growth and needs of the town. On September 22nd, they led an input session to hear from Columbia residents on specific needs and wants, and since then has been preparing a draft master plan for the town to review.

We want to hear your thoughts on this draft as it will be the basis for the final master plan.

The final master plan will prioritize our needs and desires for facilities and services, and show implementation phases to best use these town-owned lands today, and for future generations as the town continues to grow.

The town is very fortunate to own so much contiguous land between Lake Road, Hennequin Road and Route 66; wetlands and topography limit the total area for existing and future active recreation to approximately 60 acres, plus many opportunities for trails.
